The Great British American Comedy Night, a stand up comedy show, in English, in the heart of Paris, takes place every Saturday night at the SoGymnase Comedy Club, located on the fourth floor of the Theatre du Gymnase Marie Bell, 38 Boulevard de la Bonne Nouvelle, next to the metro Bonne Nouvelle. Every Saturday night at 9:30pm, comics from the UK, US and further afield, as well as local talent perform an hour of stand up comedy in English. Tickets are 10€ and include one drink, and people can either book ahead on <http://www.weezevent.com/gba> or get their tickets on the door. All the information about the show is available on Facebook <http://www.facebook.com/GBACN> A new website recaps all the Stand Up comedy in English that's available in Paris, week by week, day by day. It's called Paris Ha Ha, and can be found at <https://parishaha.wordpress.com>

Book events at Shakespeare and Company: Legendary American communist poet and activist Jack Hirschman and Paris-based poet Robert Cole. Hirschman has written more than 50 volumes of poetry and essays and, for 25 years, has roamed the streets of San Francisco, reciting poems and rousing rebellion. Jack's published volumes of poetry include "Black Alephs," "Lyrilol," "The Bottom Line," and "Endless Threshold." Hirschman is also an assistant editor at the left-wing literary journal "Left Curve" and a correspondent for "The People's Tribune." Robert Cole's latest collection is "Spool," published by Oversteps Books. His previous collections include "Manchee's Revenge" and his poems have appeared in publications such as "Ambit," "Oxford Poetry," "Van Gogh's Ear," "The New Statesman," and "New Welsh Review."
